ROOSEVELT IS NOT DECIDING ON PLANS YET

No Official Report Given on Result of Foreign Debts Conference

PRÉSIDENT DECLARES PROGRESS WAS MADE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (CP).—After Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor of New York, had journeyed to Washington today and discussed with President Hoover the weighty questions of war debts, disarmament and the approaching economic conference, the only directly official announcement on the proceedings was "it is felt that progress was made."

It was later learned, however, from a source close to President-elect Roosevelt that he made no commitments on the foreign debt situation. It was ascertained the Governor barely participated in the actual discussions, most of the talking being done by the administration leader and his associates present.

DEBT COMMISSION

It was also understood a suggestion was made for the recreation of the war debt funding commission, and that Mr. Roosevelt took the position the subject was one for the present Congress to consider, if it was recommended by Mr. Hoover.

After his conference with Mr. Roosevelt, the President of the United States issued from the White House the following statement: "The President and Governor Roosevelt, traversed at length the subjects mentioned in their telegraphic communication."

MATTER FOR HOOVER

While official silence cloaked details of what had transpired at today's meeting, the general view of political observers was that decision on the important questions at hand would be left squarely up to the present Congress.

Mr. Roosevelt and the seventy-third Congress, over which his Democratic forces will have strong control, do not take over the duties of office until March 4.

The unprecedented conference between a president in power and a president-elect occupied more than two hours. Mr. Hoover was seconded by Ogden L. Mills, the dynamic Secretary of the Treasury, who some people believe is the next leader of the Republican party, and Governor Roosevelt by Prof. Raymond Moley, of Columbia University, an economist.

HITLER CANNOT MAKE DECISION

Postpones Reply to President von Hindenburg's Conditional Offer

BERLIN, Nov. 22 (AP).—Besieged by two groups of conflicting advisers, Adolf Hitler, leader of the National Socialist movement, today postponed his reply to President von Hindenburg's reiterated conditional offer of the Chancellorship.

Hitler's decision will be set forth tomorrow in a letter to the President in reply to a communication received from the President this afternoon. In that communication the aged Field Marshal reiterated that whoever heads the new Cabinet must be sure of a safe and continuous parliamentary majority.

One group of the Hitler advisers urged all conditions laid down by the President be accepted.

Hitler himself chafed at the idea of bowing to the parliamentarianism which he has been fighting.

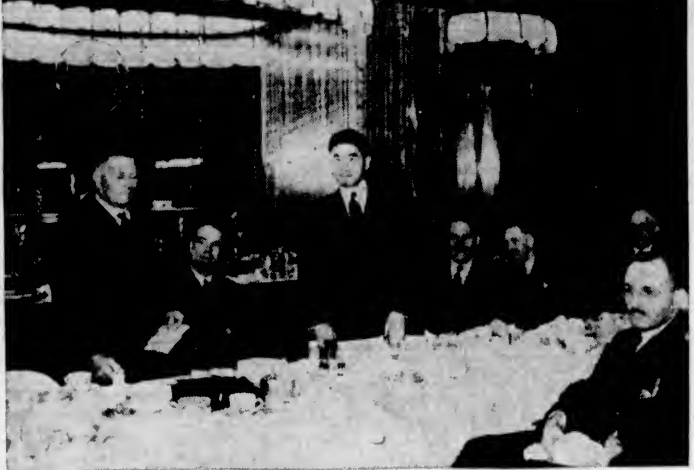

Some political commentators expressed the opinion developments of the last few days made it unlikely the Nazi chieftain would become the head of the Government.

BANDITS AT WORK IN EARLY EVENING

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22 (CP).—Held up on the Grandview Highway, near Boundary Road in Burnaby, by three masked bandits armed with revolvers, Harold Payne, employee of the American News Company here, was robbed of $50, at 5:10 o'clock tonight. After relieving their victim of all his cash, the robbers jumped into their waiting car and disappeared down a side road.

Payne, driver for his company, was returning to Vancouver from New Westminster. When nearing Boundary Road he was met by the three masked men who commanded him to stop and hold his hands up at the same time threatening him with guns. They then searched him and took what money Payne had and then allowed him to go his way. Jumping into their waiting car the robbers speedily left the scene and escaped.

Hero of Japanese Earthquake Honored

CAPTAIN Samuel Robinson, C.B.E., R.D., R.N.R., retired commander of the Empress of Japan, veteran of thirty-seven years with the Canadian Pacific Steamships on the Pacific, received the homage of more than 250 leading citizens of Vancouver when, at a luncheon of the foreign trade bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade aboard the Empress of Japan, he was decorated with the Imperial Japanese medal of merit. The decoration was in recognition of his heroism at Yokohama in September, 1923, when, as commander of the liner Empress of Australia, he stood by during the reign of terror occasioned by the worst earthquake disaster in Japan's history to succor thousands of refugees. Captain Robinson is shown at left, wearing the Medal of Merit, with red ribbon, which Japanese Consul Teruo Hachiya (standing at right) has just pinned on his chest. Between them is K. J. Burns, Vancouver's port superintendent, who was chairman at the complimentary luncheon. At Mr. Robinson's right is Captain Edmund Aikman, general superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Steamships.

Liberal Leader Changes Mind Twice in Voting On Empire Trade Pacts

Appeals for New Churches Find Englishmen Responsive

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP).—Despite hard times, religious bodies in England are finding the public responsive to appeals for money to build new churches or establish funds for other purposes. The newly-joined Methodist Church proposes to launch soon a thanksgiving fund of about $2,000,000 for use primarily in bolstering its fund for aged ministers and widows of ministers.

At the same time the Anglican Church is making special efforts to provide churches in newly-populated districts and is gaining reasonably good support. The Bishop of London, appealing for about $600,000 to provide forty-five new churches, has already received about $240,000 and has promises of $90,000 more.

In Birmingham efforts to collect $150,000 for twenty new churches have already brought in about $120,000.

Since the war considerably more than 200 Anglican Churches have been built or will be built soon.

Measures to Relieve Unemployment Chief Problem of Session

Intention of British Government to Bring Forward New Plans Expressed in King's Speech at Opening of Parliament

LONDON, Nov. 22 (CP).—The King opened Parliament today and as soon as the dignified, ancient pageantry was over members of the House of Commons walked into their own chamber to engage in a violent battle of words over the question of unemployment.

ARMED MEN ROB HAMILTON BANK

Bandits Force Clerks Into Vault and Escape With $2,500 at Noon Hour

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 22 (CP).—Despite a wide search, police are without a clue as to the identity of two armed men who today robbed the Mount Hamilton branch of the Royal Bank of $2,500.

In one of the nearest, quickest hold-ups of local history, the two men stepped into the bank while the manager, H. R. Wallace, was at lunch, herded two clerks into the vault, calmly scooped up all the cash in sight and then climbed into their waiting automobile and disappeared.

The clerks were released after customers, entering following the hold-up, heard faint sounds from the vault and notified the manager.

Five Seek to Be Vancouver Mayor

VANCOUVER, Nov. 22.—Colonel Nelson Spencer, M.P.P., who has been considering entering the mayoralty contest for several days, today announced his candidature. Colonel Spencer's entry into the mayoralty contest makes the fifth candidate. The other four candidates are Mayor L. D. Taylor, Park Commissioner Fred Crane, T. W. Fletcher and Alderman John Bennett.

Hundred Drowned and Crops Lost in Colombian Floods

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 22 (AP).—About 100 persons were drowned and many were made homeless by floods in Huila department, reports reaching Mr. Mole, said. Crops in the department, which lies in the Colombian Andes to the south of here, were reported ruined.

Huila department, from which reports were received today, is more than 100 miles south of Bogota and communication with many of the towns is difficult, even under normal conditions, because of the mountainous terrain.

R. W. MAYHEW IS CANDIDATE

Well-Known Business Man Will Stand for Reeveship in Oak Bay Elections

Robert W. Mayhew, for the past two years a member of the Oak Bay Council, past president of the Chamber of Commerce, and widely known business man of the city, will be a candidate for the reeveship in Oak Bay, from which Reeve E. C. Hayward is retiring at the end of this year. Mr. Mayhew is manager of the Sidney Roofing and Paper Company, is the only aspirant thus far for the chief magistracy's post.

Two vacancies will be created on the council at the expiration of the present term, with the retirement of Councillors Mayhew and Hew Paterson. A retiring member of this year's council, will seek re-election.

FINE RECORD

In announcing his decision to leave public life this year, Reeve Hayward does so with an excellent record of five years as reeve, five years as councillor and two years as school trustee. It was with a great deal of reluctance that Reeve Hayward decided to offer himself as reeve for the past year, and only at the insistent demand of members of the council and others outside the council did he agree to allow his name to go forward when he was re-elected by acclamation.

WILL TRY FOR SECOND RECORD

Amy Johnson Announces Plans for Attempt on Return Journey

CAPETOWN, Nov. 22 (CP).—Amy Johnson, premier British aviatrix, today announced she would attempt a record-breaking flight from Cape Town to England about the middle of December.

She appeared not contented with her accomplishment of last week when she lopped nearly eleven hours off the record for the England-Cape flight established by her husband, J. A. Mollison, last spring, and said she would begin preparations for the new flight at once.

Announcement that she would attempt the northward flight came shortly after Amy talked on the long-distance telephone with Mollison in London.

Mollison had previously suggested he might fly here in an attempt to lower his wife's record and that they might both fly back to England in a joint attempt to lower the record again.

He appeared to have reconsidered the idea today, however, on the ground his presence might interfere with Amy's plans for her northward flight.

MEETING OF PREMIERS WILL DISCUSS JOBLESS INSURANCE AND INCOME TAX QUESTION

Will Be Candidate for Reeveship

R. W. MAYHEW retiring member of the Oak Bay council this year, who announced yesterday his decision to contest the reeve's seat to be vacated by Reeve E. C. Hayward at the expiration of the year. Mr. Mayhew has served two years on the council and has long been publicly identified in the municipality and city.

Premier Bennett to Confer With Representatives of Provinces in December or January on Contributory Scheme—Federal Plan Impossible at Present

Conference May Result in New Fields of Jurisdiction

OTTAWA, Nov. 22 (CP).—Dominion and Provincial representatives will sit around the council table in December or January to consider a nation-wide contributory system of unemployment insurance, Premier R. B. Bennett announced in the House of Commons tonight. Divided authority makes impossible a scheme at the present time, the Prime Minister said. The field of jurisdiction will be redistributed, not only in regard to social legislation but in the realm of income taxation and authority over company incorporations.

CHAS. STRATTON DIES SUDDENLY

Member of Colonist Composing-Room Staff Drops Dead at His Post

Death came suddenly to Charles Elmer Stratton, for twenty years a valued employee of The Colonist, yesterday afternoon. He was 54 years old. Mr. Stratton, who had been ill for some time, died at his home, 1000 Commercial street, after a long illness. He was a member of the Colonist composing-room staff and had been working there for many years. He was a very kind and helpful man, and his death is a great loss to the paper.

PROMISES CO-OPERATION

From the Liberal leader came a promise of co-operation in establishing a nation-wide unemployment insurance scheme. Unemployment came before the House a few minutes after it opened in the afternoon. Speaker George Black ruled out of order a motion calling for a commission to investigate the causes and extent of unemployment in Canada.

And the House upheld the Speaker's ruling, eighty-four to fifty-six, when it was challenged. Conservatives stood behind the Speaker to a man, with Liberals, Progressives, Independents and Laborites pitted against them.

"A. A. Heaps, Winnipeg Laborite, introduced the offending motion the night before, and the Speaker reserving until today his judgment on its admissibility."

MAY BE VICTIM OF FOUL PLAY

Suspect Indian Found Dead on Railway Tracks Was Murdered

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 22.—Possibilities that Charles Pierre, thirty-year-old Indian of Mission, was murdered near Mission on the morning of Sunday, November 13, are being investigated by Provincial Police, following receipt of information from relatives of the deceased man.

His body was found lying in the centre of the C.P.R. tracks after a train had passed over it, but his relatives believe that he was murdered and the body was robbed before it was placed there.

VERDICT ACCIDENTAL

A coroner's jury last week returned a verdict of "Accidental death; killed by a train."

Police were informed today that Pierre was in Mission at 9:45 a.m. Sunday and at that time had twelve dollars or more in his pockets.

The westbound train left Mission at 9:15 a.m. and about half a mile west of there the train crew sighted something white, which looked like a bundle of paper, on the track.

When the train arrived at Port Coquitlam, thirty miles west, the crew decided to telephone police at Mission.

Police proceeded along the track and found the body at 10 a.m. Pierre was wearing a white sweater.

NO MUTILATION

The body was not mutilated as a man would be if he had been knocked down by the cowcatcher. The body had been turned over by the cowcatcher passing over it. There were severe head injuries believed to have caused death.

Relatives state that Pierre had a few drinks before leaving Mission for home, but state he was not intoxicated. His way home lay along the railway tracks.

Provincial Police state they have evidence that the body was lying on the tracks some time before the train passed.

Sweeping Reduction Is Made on Liquor Prices by Cabinet

Attorney-General Pooley Announces Successful Negotiations With Distillers, Which, With Lower Federal Imports, Permit Economies

Sweeping reduction of liquor prices, on all save continental European brands, will go into effect in British Columbia on December 1, Attorney-General Pooley announced yesterday, after the Government had approved of the new price list presented by the Liquor Control Board.

As high as 60 cents a bottle in some instances, the reductions come from successful culmination of efforts of the board to buy for less from the United Kingdom and Canadian distillers, and also from rebates available on account of reduced customs duties and excise taxes under Federal control.

The reductions, ranging from 10 cents to 60 cents a bottle, extend throughout the entire list of imported liquors carried by the board, with the exception of brandies, wines and champagne from France, not affected by the British trade pact. Local wines will be unaffected.

EXTENSIVE CUTS

The greatest difference will be noted on liquors from Great Britain, where both cheaper buying by the board, and the effect of Empire treaties combine to induce the highest percentage cuts. Extending over several hundred brands, the reductions in the new price list were fully ratified by the Cabinet yesterday.

Picked at random to instance the Scotch whisky, which was reduced from $1.82 to $1.40 a bottle. Continued on Page 2, Column 4

ALBERTA DEFICIT IS FIVE MILLION

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 (CP).—Deficit of $5,153,050 in Alberta provincial finances for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, is shown in public accounts released by Hon. R. G. Reid, Provincial Treasurer, today. This compares with a deficit of $2,958,581 for the previous fiscal year, 1930-31.

Revenue for the year, which had been estimated at $18,441,487, actually yielded $13,492,430, a shrinkage of nearly five millions. Expenditures were estimated at $18,828,798, but were cut to $18,645,481.

Yale Professor Saw Italy Regenerated Under New Regime

Lester Paige Breckenridge, Now Visiting City,
Cites Advantages of Mussolini's Government
From Observations Over Several Years

NEARLY all travelers to foreign countries return with impressions of what they have seen. But very few come back with an explicit enumeration of the things they did not see, as did Lester Paige Breckenridge, a retired Yale professor, who with his wife has spent the greater part of every alternate year for the past ten years in Italy. Professor and Mrs. Breckenridge are visitors in the city for a few days as the guests of Mrs. Breckenridge's brother, G. Ford, late general superintendent of the C.P.R. Express Company, before proceeding to Southern California to spend the winter with relatives there.

"We have traveled all over Italy many times during the past ten years, yet never saw a wooden building, not even a wooden floor, or wooden dog kennel, never saw a paper bag, scrap heap of old tin or other refuse, four-wheel cars, doorknobs, 'up-and-down' windows, or pie," Professor Breckenridge enumerated, after reference to his notebook.

Because there are no wooden buildings and very little wood used in structural work of any kind, fire departments are unimportant, if they exist at all. Personally he had never seen any sign of them. Italy used up all its wood hundreds of years ago, and resorted to marble and other nonflammable substances for its buildings.

A LOCAL INDUSTRY
"Mussolini told the people that they drank too much tea. Don't drink tea," he said. "Drink your own wines and grow more grapes!" An amusing description was given of shopping in a country which expected everyone to bring his own container, although Professor Breckenridge indicated his appreciation and approval of the thrifty spirit which prompted the merchants to dispense with paper bags. This had the further advantage that it cut down the cost of food to the consumer. The absence throughout the country of the ugly dumps of empty tins and old motor cars, which disfigure the environs of many cities on this continent, was another indication of Italian thrift, as any such material, if it has any use at all, is immediately converted to such use, and the refuse turned into fuel. For Italy is a country without fuel resources, and exercises the greatest care even in garnering and making up into little bundles the small sticks which drop from trees.

ENGINEERING WORKS
As a professor of engineering at Yale, Mr. Breckenridge naturally noticed the engineering works, and he maintains that Mussolini has brought about almost incredible improvements in the railway system, sanitation, roads and the general cleaning up of the country. The trains are clean and punctual, the officials courteous. During the past ten years Italy has electrified 450 miles of double track between Leghorn and Milan, which is more than can be found anywhere in the United States. Sanitation, a matter of tremendous importance to the people as well as the tourists, has been so improved that hardly any further improvements can be made. Of primary importance in this connection is the water supply, ten years ago so contaminated that visitors were advised to buy specially "filtered" bottled water, whereas now the reservoirs have been so cleaned up that one can drink the ordinary supply with impunity.

Naples, which had the reputation of being a particularly dirty city, has been cleaned and beautified. The same process has been going on all through Italy, and citizens, formerly so accustomed to dirt that they often did not notice it, were at last becoming really proud of the cleanliness and beauty of their streets. New York seemed dirty by comparison.

BEGGARS GONE
"Beggars have practically disappeared under Mussolini," it was remarked. This has been effected by making each municipal district responsible for its own beggars, who are cared for in local institutions and are turned back from towns to which they do not belong.

The motor car is by no means so ubiquitous in Italy as in the United States, the population of 45,000,000 possessing only 850,000 cars. Traffic is well regulated, and old cities with narrow streets practice a system of two-way traffic for autos and one-way traffic for people. As cities are not blocked up in this country, people may cross wherever they wish, the police halting the traffic periodically. In Milan no horse-drawn vehicle may enter the middle of the city. The Federal police were described as "smartly turned out, extremely polite, always in pairs and to be found everywhere."

Education has gone hand in hand with other improvements under the new regime. Everywhere new school buildings are to be seen, and the period of the child's education has been considerably extended. Teachers are better than ten years ago.

Italy still uses the old hand-farming methods, and because of this employs a very different kind of agriculture. The food is excellent, and living is extraordinarily cheap," it was noted. In Amalfi last winter they had lived for two months in one of the best hotels in the world, including tips, amounting to only $4 per day for the two of them.

Professor Breckenridge has almost unqualified praise for Mussolini because of the marvelous improvements that Italy has enjoyed under his regime.

"I never saw Mussolini, although several friends have offered to give me introductions. I never saw Leonardo da Vinci either, but I have seen his 'The Last Supper,' and anyone who could paint such faces must have been a great man. Just as Michelangelo must have been a great man to be able to execute great figures from blocks of crude marble. So when I recall Italy as it was ten years ago, at the beginning of Mussolini's regime, with the Italy of today, I must acknowledge that the person who brought about this change must be a great man."

MEETING OF PREMIERS
WILL DISCUSS JOBLESS
INSURANCE QUESTION
PREMIER MAKES STATEMENT
The Prime Minister at the outset denied there was any desire on the part of the Government to restrict or prevent discussion of the subject so long as it was conducted within the rules of the House.

Mr. Bennett said he was about to make a statement which he had intended making until the adjournment. He then proceeded to announce the Government's policy on unemployment.

Mr. Bennett received a statement he had made in the House in April, 1931, when he had discussed the question of unemployment insurance. As he said then there were two reasons why unemployment insurance legislation could not be introduced. One was of constitutional and the other economic lack of information.

ONE PROVINCE OPPOSED
At least one province had made it quite clear it would tolerate no Federal interference with its constitutional powers, the Premier said. The problem of jurisdiction could be the question of property and civil rights, a purely provincial matter, but at the bottom of all relief of a person in financial straits was the question of unemployment insurance legislation would have to have the sanction both of the Legislatures and of this Parliament.

That difficult line, he said, "can be overcome," he continued. "It can be overcome rather readily if all the provinces will agree to an amendment to the constitution vesting the necessary power in this Parliament."

TO SUMMON CONFERENCE
The Government proposed, he said, to summon an interprovincial conference between now and the reassembling of Parliament on January 30, to consider this and other problems.

Among other matters to be considered was incorporation of companies and the protection of investors. Charters were now granted by both the provinces and the Dominion. Canada should have a uniform companies act. It was a difficult and complex problem.

There was also the question of income taxes and of the whole sphere of action. Double and sometimes triple taxation of the one income did not invite persons with capital to settle in the provinces of Canada. There was also the question of overlapping jurisdiction in industrial matters. Negotiations were now going on between the Dominion and the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

NO OBJECTION HERE
British Columbia would probably have no objection to the offer if the Federal Government wished to take over the whole question of unemployment relief, whether by means of a national contributory unemployment insurance scheme, or otherwise, Premier Tominie commented when placed in receipt of news reports from Ottawa saying the matter of insurance was under study.

British Columbia has not yet received any word on the matter, but if invited to be represented at a Federal-Provincial gathering to discuss the issue, would be pleased to send a representative, the Premier stated. So far, however, no official word has been heard from Ottawa on the plan.

SERVICE THIS MORNING
The funeral service will be held this morning for Jane Teague at St. Matthew's Church, where Rev. A. G. E. Munson will conduct the service at 11 o'clock. Interment will be made at Royal Oak Burial Park.

FUNERAL TODAY
The funeral service will be held this afternoon for Hannah Elizabeth Bland at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where Rev. H. P. S. Luttrel will conduct the rites at 2:15 o'clock. Interment will be made at Ross Bay Cemetery.

TROTSKY LEAVES FRANCE
DUNKIRK, France, Nov. 22 (AP).—With a couple of unpleasant, scarcely important, incidents as souvenirs of his hurried dash across France from Marseilles, Leon Trotsky, Russian revolutionary, embarked on the steamer Bernstorff today for Copenhagen, where he will arrive tomorrow evening.

MODERN ART IS MORE ANALYTIC
Max Maynard Delivers Address at Victoria College on Interesting Theme
Is modern art the expression of the cause of the modern age? pessimism, scepticism and boredom? The question was introduced by Max Maynard in his interesting address on "Modern Art," given before a capacity audience of students and others at Victoria College last night.

"Modern art, whether we like it or not, expresses the hard metallic beauty of a machine age devoid of sentiment," he commented at one point in the course of a talk which betrayed some enthusiasm for the new method of expression. A number of excellently chosen pictures were used to illustrate the lecture.

EDUCATION
Education has gone hand in hand with other improvements under the new regime. Everywhere new school buildings are to be seen, and the period of the child's education has been considerably extended. Teachers are better than ten years ago.

ANALYTICAL SPIRIT
A searching analytical spirit characterized all forms of thought today, and was found in the psychological approach to characters portrayed in literature, in sculpture, in music, and in pictures. This was, perhaps, robbing some things of their freshness, producing some times disillusion and ennui. It had resulted in some experimentation of value to art. It had also resulted in a new presentation of characters in portraits of men and women, as was indicated in some of the analytical studies thrown on the screen in connection with one of these pictures almost Hogarthian in its grotesqueness, Mr. Maynard referred to the changed conception of man since Giorgione's time when they were deemed to be king-like beings.

ADVENTURES OF SPIRIT
The modernist held that art was less a matter of accurately recording the world's face than of truthfully portraying the adventures of the spirit; and another clause in the modernist's creed was that he must always have a profound respect for his freedom, productiveness and his painter, in line, color, space and form. If it depended for its merit on the interest of the subject it would be less than the value of the picture almost Hogarthian in its grotesqueness, Mr. Maynard referred to the changed conception of man since Giorgione's time when they were deemed to be king-like beings.

WOULD PRESERVE ISLANDS RIDING
Capt. M. F. Macintosh Pleads Cause of Isolated Gulf Communities in Redistribution
Captain M. F. Macintosh, Conservative member for the Islands, championed the cause of the Islands riding as a separate political entity at the Legislative Buildings yesterday. For a number of reasons, any action to redistribute seats in the Legislature should preserve the identity of the Islands electoral district, Captain Macintosh said.

Composed of an ever-growing number of small communities, each separate and geographically distinct in itself, the Islands riding extends through a double chain of islands in the Gulf of Georgia, a British Columbia archipelago of scenic beauty and agricultural possibilities unique in many respects from other tillable lands in the province. It takes in part of North Saanich, with some of the similar community of interest.

Farming is the chief occupation of the whole area, but is carried out under conditions dissimilar with all other parts of the province, and under the present grant of limited transportation facilities.

WIDE RANGE OF PRODUCTS
A wide range of products are produced in the Islands riding, with an annual value running into many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Though numerically small in population, the whole area is of considerable extent, its component parts isolated from each other and from the rest of the province.

It was as much as one man could do at the present time to get round the district as it is, Captain Macintosh continued, and to do this even one had to depend on wind and weather.

Not from the narrow viewpoint of political advantage, but from the broad needs of the people living in the area, the district should have direct representation in the House, Captain Macintosh concluded.

Mr. Mayhew is a business man widely associated in Victoria and district. He has been publicly identified for many years past with various unflattering his record being that of a member of the Kidd Commission.

R. R. Taylor is also well known in public life, both in the municipality and the city. He has been an Oak Bay taxpayer for the past twenty years and is at present a member of the zoning board, a post which he has occupied for five years. He is a former member of the police commission.

Captain Ellis has become widely known as proprietor of the Seaford Apartments. He has heavy investments in the municipality and in other parts of British Columbia. He has resided in Oak Bay for the last nine years, and since his arrival there has taken an active part in community work.

He has a distinguished sea record and during the Great War was in command of several mine sweepers. He has been associated with a large number of business concerns in England.

CHAS. STRATTON DIES SUDDENLY
In 1902 Mr. and Mrs. Stratton returned to Seattle, where he again found employment on The Times staff, continuing there until he left to come to Victoria in 1912.

CAME TO VICTORIA
Finding immediate employment on The Colonist, first as a compositor, he was later placed in the proofroom as reader, and eventually became senior proofreader, a position which he occupied until the moment of his death. He was rated as exceptionally efficient in his work, and exceedingly well informed on a wide variety of subjects.

Of a friendly disposition and imbued with a desire to co-operate with his fellow employees, his kindly advice and quiet humor was appreciated by all who had the privilege of being associated with him.

Ordinarily he was in the best of health, and his passing was unexpected. He was predeceased by Mrs. Stratton, who died on Easter Monday a year ago. Her death was a heavy blow to him. He is survived by one son, Martin, in Portland; one daughter, Mrs. I. H. Kelly, Wenatchee, Wash.; and five grandchildren, one in Victoria, Mrs. Dorothy Kitchen, and four in United States.

Franco-Canadian Pact Negotiations Advance

IS UNDER FIRE
B.C. Minister of Finance Defends Position on Dependents' Relief
Three developments pressed consideration of the new Jones' scale of relief for married men on the Cabinet yesterday, without changing the announced intention of the Government of putting the plan into effect as already outlined on December 1.

Vancouver City gave voice to protests which will be forwarded in writing to the Government. Victoria City sent a personal delegation, under Mayor David Leeming, to call on Premier Tominie. Unnamed members of the Government suggested reconsideration, from within the Cabinet's own ranks. At the close of day, the Jones scale remained unchanged.

Major Leeming, accompanied by Alderman P. R. Brown, Alderman Alex Peden and Relief Officer E. G. Snowden, laid before the Premier the reaction of the Victoria City Council to the announced plan.

This, briefly, was that in the city's opinion the new scale of allowances for food and shelter, etc., was inadequate, and the city could not afford to supplement that scale, or any scale to which the Government would not contribute.

With some 500 married men on its books, the city faced an added cost of $7,000 up to March next, as the difference between what was being paid and what would be paid on the new basis.

The average family on relief in Victoria was said to be two adults and under two children, now receiving an average of $31 monthly, but only entitled to $23.80 under the new scale, Premier Tominie was told.

EXPLAINS TREASURY ANGLE
Hon. J. W. Jones said the Government could not afford to increase the scale, both on its own account, and also on account of the credit of some of the municipalities concerned. The Province had advanced loans to municipalities in 1931, taking ten-year debentures in return for loans that the Government itself would have to refinance within a year. Similarly this year, the Government had made further loans, taking municipal debentures up to a five-year period, on which it must also refinance within a year, Mr. Jones stressed.

Though reduced slightly in the current year, provincial grants to municipalities had totaled $5,500,000 in other years, and some $3,500,000 this year, on account of the usual disbursements made from the provincial treasury.

HOLD MUNICIPAL BONDS
In addition the Province had bought in municipal securities to a considerable extent, to aid certain municipalities, and to strengthen their credit. Municipal credit was a matter of some provincial concern in a general sense, without reference to any particular municipality, Mr. Jones affirmed.

In so far as the Province itself was concerned, it could not afford to increase the scale, which was already higher than paid in most other provinces, and the limit towards which the British Columbia Government could contribute on its present resources, the Minister of Finance concluded. Mr. Jones said he was preparing exact data on the subject, which he will issue shortly.

LIBERAL LEADER CHANGES MIND TWICE IN VOTING ON PACTS
Conservatives cast derisive laughter across the floor as Liberal leader voted for the Rhodesian agreement. But their comments took more sarcasm and their laughter became more uproarious when the next vote was called.

CHANGES HIS MIND
It was the treaty with the Irish Free State and it produced a scene that delighted the Conservatives. The Liberal leader first announced he would support the treaty, then changed his mind and opposed it, taking all but one of his followers with him. Government members pounded their desks in unrestrained merriment. Liberals for the most part were glum and silent.

When the vote on the Free State treaty finally was taken, Olof Hanson, Liberal, Skeena, six Progressive Liberals and practically every Conservative in the House supported it. Armand Lavergne, Conservative, Montserrat, joined all but the Rhodesian treaty.

the Liberals in opposing it. The vote was eighty-nine to forty-eight. Next came the South African treaty. "Are you going to change your mind this time?" shouted the Conservatives, still chuckling. But there was nothing unusual about the division. Conservatives supporting the treaty, Liberals opposing it, and the ginger group split. The vote was 92 to 48.

NO PARTY BOLLERS
Finally came the treaty with the United Kingdom—the most important of all and the object of most of the attacks from the Liberals. It passed by 84 to 42 without party bolters.

There was a long list of pairs on all votes, but six members of the ginger group supported each treaty—Kennedy, Peace River; Speakman, Red Deer; Lucas, Camrose; Campbell, MacKenzie; Luchkovitch, Vegreville; and Carmichael, Kindersley.

Opposing every treaty were Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive, South-east Grey; Henri Bourassa, Independent, Labelle; J. S. Woodworth, Liberal, Winnipeg; and eleven Liberals who voted against the Rhodesian agreement. A. W. Neil, British Columbia Independent, voted against Conservative, Montserrat, joined all but the Rhodesian treaty.

Local Debaters to Meet British Team Tomorrow

J. Villiers Fisher and A. H. C. Corby Will Compete Against Touring Representatives at Chamber of Commerce on Current Topic

One of the feature literary events of the present year will take place at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night, at 8 o'clock, when the debating team representing Great Britain and a selected team from Victoria's public speakers will discuss the pros and cons of "Resolved: That Democracy Has Been Proved in the Past Ten Years a Failure," with the local debaters advancing the affirmative side of the argument.

The visiting team is comprised of Ivor B. Jones, a graduate in geography and English of the University College of Wales, and Hector McNeill, a student in mental philosophy of the Woodside Secondary School at Glasgow. Victoria's representatives are J. Villiers Fisher, of the Civil Service Literary and Debating Society, and Alaric H. C. Corby, president of the Victoria High School Beta Delta Society.

LOCAL JUDGES

The Canadian tour of the Old Country debaters is sponsored by the National Federation of Canadian University students, and the local debate is being held under the auspices of the Service Clubs' Council of this city. Mayor David Leeming will preside, with B. C. Nicholas, Professor E. S. Parr, of Victoria College, and Joseph B. Clearthine acting as judges.

The tour of the visitors has aroused considerable interest in the past few weeks while they have been appearing at Eastern cities. They have debated before large audiences and their arguments have proved a source of intellectual information to their hearers.

This is the fifth group of Old Country representatives to make its appearance in Canada, and on each occasion the visits have met with renewed approval and interest.

DISTINGUISHED SPEAKERS

Both Mr. Jones and Mr. McNeill distinguished themselves considerably in the Old Land before having the honor conferred upon them to make the tour. Mr. Jones took part many times in inter-varsity debates representing his college, while Mr. McNeill has achieved not only against other institutions also.

The Victorians were selected at preliminary trials held here several weeks ago, with teams from various service clubs and other organizations competing. While their experience is not as wide as their opponents, many who have heard them predict they will provide a well contested debate.

Advance tickets may be obtained at Fletcher Bros' Music Store, Douglas Street.

SUDDEN FLOODS CAUSE DAMAGE

Flooding of the Vedder River, with a rise of eight feet in a single night, has laid waste many farm lands around Chilliwack and Sumas and occasioned structural damage to the extent of several thousands of dollars. It was reported yesterday to Hon. R. W. Bruhn, by public works engineers in the area. Similar floods in the Bella Coola Valley were also reported during the day.

The Government made immediate plans to set about dyke replacement and curtail further possible damage in both areas. Hon. Mr. Bruhn, government engineer at New Westminster, was instructed to take all steps necessary in connection with the flooding of the Vedder River.

Major H. L. Swan, provincial engineer in charge of the Coast and Island area, left with T. A. Young for Bella Coola to see to it that the damage done there when the Bella Coola River went on the rampage. Recent heavy rainfall and heavy snow, followed by a thaw, occasioned high water in both places. Other and minor incidents of flooding are reported from other points in the province.

In so far as it is found possible, remedial measures will be aimed at a permanent solution of the difficulty by adequate protection works. Both areas have suffered before.

Will Represent Victoria

J. V. FISHER

Above are the selected representatives who will meet the British debating team of Hector McNeill and Ivor B. Jones in a debate at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock. Mr. Fisher is president of the Civil Service Literary Society, and Mr. Corby a Victoria High School student and president of the Beta Delta Society of the school. The debate is being sponsored by the Service Clubs' Council of this city.

COLLEGE LIFE IS DESCRIBED

Alan D. Baker Explains Operation of Students' Council to Kiwanians

Methods of student self-government as carried out by the Students' Council at Victoria were outlined by Alan D. Baker, president, to members of the Kiwanis Club yesterday as part of the Education Week programme. The luncheon was also attended by Professor Percy H. Elliott, principal of the college, and Kenneth B. C. Nicholas, chairman of the Education Week committee.

Mr. Baker spoke generally on college activities, dealing chiefly with the work of the council and its officers. The student council, he declared, takes charge of all activities at the institution and handles finances for all groups. It also has charge of school discipline, except in cases where intervention by the teachers is necessary.

SCHOOL EXPENDITURES

Expenditures are budgeted annually, he said, and the council is confronted with many difficulties during the year in making grants and keeping the various societies within their budget. He humorously explained the way in which the council is constantly being petitioned by students representing the various groups to have their own grant increased. Chief difficulty was found in arranging expenses for athletics and intellectual bodies, both of which often felt the other was receiving too much.

The college funds are raised each year from the students who pay $4.50 to the Alma Mater Society, of which every student is a member. Five dollars of this amount is given to a general fund, 50c to an accident fund and $1.00 to the school annual fund, he continued.

Operation of the council, he stated, was left entirely with the students, who sat with representatives from each of the organizations and a member of the teaching faculty. Decisions of the council are rarely overruled by the teachers' representative, which is only necessary when members of the council are obviously under false impression or on the wrong track.

Mr. Elliott expressed his appreciation of the Kiwanis Club's continued interest in college education affairs.

acknowledging his gratification of this action during present times, when, he said, education is subjected to a constant bombardment from all sides.

Mr. Elliott spoke of the value of placing responsibilities of the student body with the students themselves, pointing out the value of this action in teaching the students independence. There had been much criticism offered when student self-government was first instigated at the college, but it had proven a great success during the last ten years, he asserted.

On behalf of the Education Week committee, Mr. Nicholas thanked the club for the programme it had arranged as its contribution.

AUTHOR WILL BE GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Nellie McClung Will Address Life Underwriters' Association Dinner

Mrs. Nellie McClung, author, has consented to address the Island Life Underwriters' Association at its final meeting of the season to be held December 9, it was announced yesterday.

This meeting will take the form of a dinner gathering at which all life underwriters, their wives and members of the various office staffs will be invited to attend.

On Monday the association conducted another successful study class for the Charter Life Underwriters' degree. H. W. N. Moorehouse, of the Confederation Life Association, led the class on this occasion.

W. E. G. McLagan, C.L.U., local in the Metropolitan Life Insurance and Company, will be the speaker at the next study class to be held in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's offices on Monday, November 28. His subject will be "History and Law."

Britannia Branch Monte Carlo Party to Provide Funds for Children's Christmas Tree

Fully believing in the old adage that age must make way for youth, the members of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion has decided to let the adult members of the unit pay for the annual children's Christmas tree party this year from the funds collected at a Monte Carlo party to be held on the evening of December 9.

Monte Carlo parties staged in the past by this branch have always been an outstanding success, and it is expected that the entertainment offered this year will far surpass any previous attempts. An interesting series of games and competitions has been arranged.

Percy Payne, chairman of the entertainment committee, will act as master of ceremonies.

For Wise Folks --- No More STOMACH GAS

Here's a simple, harmless, pleasant to take home remedy for gas and ordinary stomach disturbance such as sourness, acidity and indigestion that puts your upset stomach in prime condition in just a few minutes—and it always works.

Just take a teaspoonful of Bismarck Magnesia in a glass of water whenever your stomach isn't working properly and you'll be joyfully surprised at its speedy action.

If you suffer from stubborn or chronic indigestion take one teaspoonful after each meal for a week and you'll swiftly know the blessedness of a normal, perfect acting stomach.

After that such bothersome ailments as headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness and nervousness will cease to annoy. Just try one box—you can get it from any drugist in the world—it is not expensive.

You want what's best for your upset, gassy stomach—so ask for and GET Bismarck Magnesia. (Advt.)

NEW ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED HERE

The West Countrymen's Association for Cornishmen, Devonians and former residents of Somerset was organized in Victoria recently by Samuel Osborne. A large attendance featured the opening meeting and Mr. Osborne explained that he hoped the membership would be increased at every meeting.

A delightful programme was rendered by the following artists: Miss Betty Stevenson, Miss Frances Merryfield, Thomas Obee, Stanley James and Frank Merryfield.

DOUGLAS P. T.A.

The Sir James Douglas P.T.A. will hold their annual bazaar this afternoon in the auditorium of the school. The affair will be opened by Mrs. Hayward at 3 o'clock. The stalls will include home cooking, miscellaneous and fish pond. Afternoon tea will be served. In the evening cards will be played, to which all parents and friends are invited.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

After 3 o'clock, extra curricular activities were shown the parents. G. H. Bevan-Pritchard conducted choral work in the assembly hall and was followed by Miss May S. Croft's classes in folk dancing.

Joseph Ross and Miss Esther Tervo conducted drills outside, while Miss J. Skillings and Miss M. Sargent supervised sports and games. A. H. Marrion conducted the visitors through the manual training room, where samples of boys' woodwork and sketching were on view. Miss Beth Ramsay conducted a class in home economics, showing the parents both the theoretical and practical sides of this subject.

STAFF COMMENDED

J. Shadbolt, for the benefit of the visitors, printed an artistic programme of the events, which was appreciated by those who attended the school. Other teachers of the staff revealed great consideration for the pupils who were more than understanding an ordeal, while all visitors commended the staff upon the attentive manner in which they had been shown through the school.

Herbert William Northcott, Native Son of Victoria, Dies—Was Widely Known Here

Herbert William Northcott, formerly of Victoria, recently passed away in Green Village, New Jersey, according to word received by friends.

Mr. Northcott was a native son and received his education in local public schools. Previous to leaving the city some twenty-five years ago, he was a pressman in the service of The Daily Colonist. He was actively engaged in church work, being a member of the Calvary (now First Baptist) Church and holding the office of Sunday school superintendent.

ORANGES HERALD HOLIDAY SEASON

Recent Shipment of Citrus Fruits From Japan Foretell Approach of Christmas Festivities

Santa Claus may still be up North with his reindeer, but his fore-runner of Christmas cheer, the Japanese oranges, without which every festive stocking filled with surprises and sweets would be incomplete, have arrived in the city and are on sale in the local stores.

A consignment consisting of four cars of these oranges arrived here via the Ss. Empress of Asia and wholesale dealers predict that prices will be lower this year than they have been for several years.

Egg prices are likewise low, having increased five cents in the last week, and remain one of the very few commodities which have increased in price over corresponding months of the previous year.

Meat and poultry are cheaper than they have been for many years, and it is expected that nearly every home in Victoria will be able to have either a large roast or a fowl this Yuletide.

REVERTED LAND PROBLEM

The time would seem opportune with an municipal election campaign in progress for the formulation, or perhaps rather the proposal, of some definite and continuous policy for the return to the tax-paying column of at least a substantial proportion of the reverted lands. There are few movements of a progressive character that could be devised more calculated to find a solution for the present problem of municipal taxation. That problem began to be intensified with the commencement of land reversions. During the few years in which a very large volume of land came back on the hands of the city, taxes, as property owners will recall, became onerous. It has never been possible since to reduce them to a point where they will no longer be regarded as burdensome. It would be possible to do this in a progressive way if and when, in a steady and cumulative manner, reverted lands were again being made tax-producing.

It was a wise provision on the part of the City Council to establish a Lands Department for looking after reverted lands, for acting as collector of rents paid and of instalments due on lands sold. It is a necessary part of civic economy where there is a reverted land problem. As well, however, the City Council should formulate a plan whereby an impetus can be given to the sale of reverted lands. That should be a part and parcel of any progressive administration. It is conceivable that such a plan could be devised in consultation with members of the Real Estate Exchange, and, perhaps, with the business interests as a whole as represented by the Chamber of Commerce.

The city now holds 3,837 reverted properties. Of these a number are reverted from sale on account of future street-widening requirements, lack of sewers, water and roads, possible future playground sites, street corners to be rounded and the elimination of danger points. There are, however, 2,187 lots available for sale. The assessed value of the property which might be placed in the tax-paying column is $1,770,000 and the approximate annual tax represented is $75,000.

There is speculation often enough of the reasons why Victoria should have only shown an infinitesimal growth in population during the past decade, according to Census returns. One reason is undoubtedly because of the reverted land situation and the fact that insufficient efforts have been made to formulate a policy for their disposal. There are building sites galore available for new residences and at prices that are extremely moderate. That is indicated by the fact that of the total number of reverted lots sold from January 1, 1930 to November 15, 1932 (117 in all), the average sale price per lot was $310. Whatever it is that prevents more reverted lots being sold it is not the price. It may be the lack of a proper campaign to place their advantages before possible buyers.

The whole subject of the problem of reverted lands is worthy of a complete investigation by a thoroughly informed local committee, or, at least, acting voluntarily and created by the City Council. It is at least conceivable that such a body could evolve a method whereby, through a campaign of advertisement, the effort is one well worth while. It is not a pleasant reflection that the last tax sale as many or more lots should have reverted to the city as all the reverted lots sold during the last three years. That is a process which if it keeps on being repeated cannot insure to civic betterment, and most certainly will not mean that we are shaping well to be able to show a growth in population during the present Census decade.

The angle of civic policy dealing with the reverted land problem is one that should have possibilities affecting development if rightly handled. The Lands Department, under well defined planning, can be made an asset of high and increasing value. This is a matter worthy of careful study and the best brains in the community ought to be asked to contribute.

THE DOCTRINE OF INFLATION

Those who are advocating inflation as a cure for the country's economic troubles seem to have omitted all notice of the word honor in the lexicon of their youth. The policy was roundly condemned by Mr. R. B. Bennett in his explanation of the issue of $35,000,000 additional currency to the banks. Mr. Bennett's money standards. Canada continues to pay her debts in gold. The additional currency issued to the banks was through the machinery of the Finance Act. A wrong viewpoint of the happening was taken in New York. The Canadian dollar slumped because Wall Street erroneously acquired the impression that a policy of inflation had been launched in this country. If it were definitely understood that such a policy was proposed it is conceivable that the Canadian dollar would slump to fifty cents in American value. What inflation would mean has in part been described by The Montreal Star:

"There is, of course, one gain that some would make. A man in debt would have his debt cut in two. The man he had borrowed money from would lose half his investment. This was why the mortgage farmers of the American West went in for Bryanism. It would reduce their mortgages by half. But if it be argued that this would be a wise and just thing to do, then Parliament should act directly, openly and without trickery. It should not tamper with the scales—it should pass a simple and frank little act, cutting all debts in two. Then we would all know what it was doing and where we were. Every aged couple who had painfully saved a little nest-egg to keep them in their old age, and had invested it in Government bonds, would have their savings reduced by half. They might be sufficient at that; for the aged couple would probably die sooner from imperfect nourishment. Every widow educating her children on insurance money left her by her late husband would have to get along on half her present lean revenue. But if only debts were affected, one class would escape debasement, suffer from inflation—that is, the working man who has a contract fixing his pay. Inflation would immediately dip its fingers into his pay envelope. In a word, if the country wanted to repudiate half its indebtedness to its own people—it cannot to the Americans—it should do so openly and not by sinking behind an inflation measure."

A LOSS TO THE COLONIST

Faithfulness, conscientiousness and efficiency were three of the outstanding characteristics of Mr. Charles E. Stratton, chief proofreader of this newspaper, whose sudden death last evening has been a great loss to the Colonist. Mr. Stratton was of that unassuming type that lets itself be little known to the outside world. His experience at his task in this newspaper, one which he had performed here for over twenty years, was well known to all his colleagues of the composing room, to the members of the editorial staff and to employees generally throughout the office. He took an avid and intelligent interest in the news stories, far beyond the perfunctory kind sometimes associated with those engaged in his branch of work. He was, in fact, an adviser, a counsellor, and a critic of the most friendly type wherever he found copy that required more than ordinarily intelligent handling.

Charles Stratton was liked by everyone who knew him, and liked heartily. He had excellent tact in his approach to other members of the staff and to those with whom it was his duty to deal. He was a man of great judgment and almost invariably could be followed with success. There was no better known member of the Typographical Union up and down the Pacific Coast, who had had his card for half a century, and wherever he went he never failed to make his quiet but effective personality known. In his passing The Colonist loses one of its most faithful and highly-appreciated employees. Charles Stratton's cheerfulness, his helpfulness and his good humor would have been assets in any newspaper office, especially when coupled with the unusual ability which he brought to bear on one of the most laborious duties in work of the Press.

Mr. Mackenzie King regards Canada's trade treaty with Britain as a scrap of paper. Even Sir Herbert Samuel and his British Liberals do not take this attitude. To them a treaty is a treaty. It may be assumed that the sanctity of international law will survive the new code of international ethics decreed by the Liberal leader at Ottawa.

A WILD VOICE SINGING

Strangely her wild voice is singing
Within my remembering ears
Like bluebells in tremolo, ringing
Their bells to a woodland of listening messengers.

I lean by the brook-water breaking
And throw the green water a pebble,
Till pools of legato start shaking
Cadenzas, that ripple and run to her crystal treble.

I peep in the sparrow's nest under
The eaves of the house, and I wonder
Till berries like dark Summer thunder
Ripen and drop into notes of her low-toned bass.

I wander by woodland and water
And look on each vine-blown hill—
Long, long have I sought her
With singing, but never have caught her, and never will.

OTTAWA AND THE CROWN COLONIES

Ottawa, in addition to its actual achievements, has been an extremely valuable reminder to all the Colonies that there are great advantages in the unity which the Secretary of State can give them when he represents them all. Since the Ottawa agreements many foreign nations have expressed their desire for economic conversations. Governments which would be quite unimpressed with the small exports of some one Colony, endeavoring to build up a local industry, feel quite differently when there is spread before them the picture of the whole Colonial Empire importing some $200,000,000 worth of goods every year—Importing Times.

Note and Comment

By R. A. D.

Are we afraid of the truth—the truth which can set us free?—Rt. Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King.

In one of the oracular discourses for which he is famous the leader of the Liberal Party asked his own followers and the people of Canada the above question. A greater authority, probably, than Mr. King, once asked another person who was destined to achieve some little posthumous renown: "What is truth?" Almost any ordinary individual has a fairly accurate conception of truth in the abstract, but the exact truth is quite a different matter, and few they be who can define it.

Of course Mr. King was speaking of truth in the political sense—the truth which alone can set the people free. In the political sense the leader of the Canadian Liberal Party is the fountain of truth, and all who refuse to bow the knee and drink at the fountain of true political life are beyond the pale, and there is no hope for them in this world, or probably in any other world for that matter. In a political sense there is no hope for redemption unless we all bow in reverence before the one and only true prophet.

We have been perusing the debates in Parliament at Ottawa, which have been freely broadcast by the Canadian press—sometimes we think more freely disseminated than the truths in them warranted—and have caught one or two glimpses of the political and economic truth as the visible Liberal orators have seen it.

Mr. King has stated that Canada's greatest need at the present time is Liberal thought. It seems that the press is not giving as much space as it should give to the speeches made in Parliament by Liberal thinkers on the question of preferential trade. The attitude of the press in the matter probably represents the attitude of readers of the newspapers, which is that the speeches made in Parliament in opposition to preferential trade are merely dreary repetitions of speeches previously made.

"A plague on both their houses" is the way in which a reader of the classics expressed his opinion for our education. Readers of the newspapers will tolerate a certain amount of politics, but when issues arise which are of more importance to the country and to the world than issues as between political parties, then newspaper readers turn for a change to the sporting pages, to the social pages, and when desperate to the picture pages.

Turning from the speech of Mr. King in quest of the truth which will set the people free, we discovered the following glittering gem of truth in a criticism of the Canadian tariff by one of the ministers in the late but unlamented government: "While seven hundred thousand men are idle they are forced to pay exorbitant prices for their wearing apparel." The truth as distinguished from the fiction in this remarkable criticism is that probably never in the history of Canada since the days when the original inhabitants "dressed" themselves in skins or since the time when the hardy original settlers wore homespun more as protection against the elements than as an adornment has clothing been so cheap. The truth of the matter must have been staring the critic in the face from many store windows when he made his way down to the Parliament Buildings to make his absurd statement. The statement we venture to make in contravention of the ex-ministerial statement is not a statement of an abstract truth, but of an actual truth which needed no demonstration.

When we come down to facts and close our mind to fancies, the fundamental truth is that there is no special virtue in mere cheapness. The economic problem of the world is not what shall be done to make things cheaper but what can be done to make things dearer. It is not high prices which are responsible for the depression. We believe that a statement of truth in the concrete which will be endorsed by the wheat-producers of the prairies, by the agriculturists of every province of Canada, by the wage-earners, by the merchants, by all men engaged in business, even by the bankers, to whom has been attributed without obvious justification a certain measure of responsibility for the world-wide depression.

The process of deflation has been proceeding for about two years, and must therefore have nearly run its course. Our Canadian free traders are probably the only persons in the country who seem to think deflation has not yet finished its work, that wages and prosperity go hand in hand, but then they are thinking of politics, not of business. The deeper the country plunges into the morass of depression the better for their political business. Instead of wishing to arrest the process of deflation, they are disposed to give it a kick and

Pioneers Plan to Build Clubhouse

A meeting of the North and South Saanich Pioneers' Society was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Turgeon, Saanichton, A. McDonald, president, the cemetery committee, composed of Mrs. J. Hughes, Mrs. H. Hagen, Mr. W. D. Mitchell and H. Brethour, reported that the grave markers of pioneers in various cemeteries had been completely lost. The bill of erecting a pioneer hall was discussed, to house old-time relics and to hold meetings.

A. Neaves offered timber to build the hall, log cabin style, the site of building being left to the following committee: A. Neaves, W. McEneaney, J. J. White, Capt. W. Bisset, W. D. Mitchell, A. McDonald and R. Nimmo.

For the purpose of raising funds for building, the society will hold an old-time dance in the Agricultural Hall, Saanichton, on December 28, under the patronage of T. L. Liddell. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

UNEMPLOYMENT

Sir,—Like a host of taxpayers, I often wonder why the city engineer persists in using the old worn-out road sweeper instead of employing one of our starved-out old men taxpayers. I guess it might or might not cost a bit more to sweep the streets, but we should have the satisfaction of employing one of our starved-out old men taxpayers. I hear that during the past fortnight the road sweeper has broken down completely five times, and that it has cost more than the wages of fifteen hand-sweepers to repair, and that it would be a disgrace to any junk heap, and lastly, because of its age it is being purchased in the U.S.A. Who was the councillor who said: "Whatever the cost, let's be up-to-date."

A DISCLAIMER

Sir,—The Victoria District Council, Canadian Legion, comprising all the branches of the Legion in this area, desires to disavow any misunderstanding that may exist in the public mind regarding any affiliation it may appear to have with a local concert party calling itself "The Legionaires."

An item in the local press about three weeks ago stated in effect that the District Council was connected in some way with a concert party, and I now feel that it should reiterate this fact, because, during the last few days the office of the council has been subjected to numerous inquiries in this regard from prominent citizens who evidently were unaware that no relationship existed between the District Council and the Canadian Legion in this area.

At the same time the District Council desires to state for the information of anyone concerned, and for its own protection, that it will not be financially or otherwise responsible in any way in any misunderstanding that may arise between any persons and the "Legionaires," through the adoption of this name by the concert party.

W.B.A. Sale Proves Most Successful

The sale of work held by the Women's Benevolent Association on Monday afternoon was opened at 2:30 o'clock by Alderman James Adam, who congratulated the members upon the good work being done by the order, and special reference was made of the Qu-Alex Girls' Club. The visitors were welcomed by the president, Mrs. McQueen Todd, and by Miss Annie Reid, the general convener of the bazaar.

The K. of C. Hall, in which the bazaar was held, was beautifully decorated and the stalls were particularly attractive, the color scheme being red and white, the colors of the order. The Pioneers' stall and that of the Girls' Club were done in mauve and in blue and gold respectively.

Afternoon tea and supper were well attended, and were served under the convenship of Mrs. A. Ricketts, Mrs. K. Herring, Mrs. D. Gillat, Mrs. D. Burnett, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. J. Bowden and Mrs. W. Laird had charge of the fancy work; the candy was sold by Mrs. Malcolm and Mrs. Davis; the Pioneers' Club stall was in charge of Mrs. Dresser; the Girls' Club, Miss Mabel Stephens; home cooking, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. McNeill; house-house, Mrs. Edmonds and Mrs. Walker; and the pumpkin competition, which caused considerable fun, was won by Alderman Hawkins.

Mrs. Morris was convener of the card games, the winners being as follows: Bridge, Mrs. Addison and Mrs. Graham; whist, Mrs. Herring, Mrs. Robson and Mrs. Malcolm. Dancing by Miss Elsie Chislett, a pupil of the Novikoff School of Dancing, was much enjoyed, and solo by Mrs. Bertucci and Miss E. Dawson were enthusiastically encored.

The newest importations from Paris, now appearing in the smarter shops on Fifth Avenue, indicate the natural waistline again in the choice of most designers. Sleeves are plain, although some designers still accent the upper arm and elbow.

Skirts for the most part are slim, with fitted hips. The hemlines are from eight to twelve inches from the floor, and just full enough to make walking comfortable.

Health at Stake? Doctors Urge Daily Yeast

UNFIT to work—mind fogged—“pep” gone—digestion bad! HEALTH returns, says Dr. Bochetti, “when” normal bowel movements are restored... JUST EAT THREE cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast a day.

RUN DOWN? Here's what you need!

Do you know that doctors consider constipation one of the dangerous diseases?

Do you know that a “run-down” condition—headaches—loss of energy—incapacity to work—may indicate a seriously clogged condition of your intestines?

Constipation is serious. But it can be corrected! As the famous Dr. Bochetti, of Rome, Italy, says:—

“Fresh yeast, I consider, is the most adequate treatment for constipation... It gives back tone to the intestinal muscles... its effect is tonic, stimulating, corrective.”

“By all means,” he adds, “try it, if you are... run-down.”

Fleischmann's Yeast acts two ways. It softens the accumulated food wastes and actually strengthens the intestines so they can function normally. Gradually normal bowel movements are restored. Relief follows. The whole system responds. Headaches and tiredness disappear. And in their place... vitality, “pep”!

—the kind famous doctors advise!

Ribbons Score 6th Straight Cage Win Over C.P.S., 32-17

Take Measure of Lumbermen in Feature Game at High Gym in City Loop—J.B.A.A. Blues Down Harmony—Normal School Trims Oarsmen

Blue Ribbons continued their undefeated march towards the senior "A" title in the Victoria and District Basketball League last night at the Victoria High School gymnasium by handing C.P.S. a 32-17 defeat in the feature fixture on the programme. It was the Ribbons' sixth straight victory and puts them in a good position to capture the first high honors. Blues came from behind to win from Harmony in the opening tussle in the women's senior "B" division, 29-16, while Normal School showed great teamwork and fighting spirit to take a thrilling 20-19 verdict from J.B.A.A. in the men's senior "B" company. It was the best game on the card.

The senior game was far from exciting and lacked good basketball. Neither quintette showed signs of mid-season form, and the basketball was somewhat ragged and uninteresting. C.P.S. went into an early lead through baskets by Caddell and Skilling, and were out in front, 6-1, during the first five minutes. Muzz Patrick, Art Chapman and Joe Ross caged three one, one after another, and sent the Ribbons into a lead they never gave up. The Ribbons kept adding to their total and held a 17-10 margin at the interval. Johnny Craig was off on four personals long before the half ended.

George Davis went off early in the second half for the lumbermen with fouls. The game was delayed for several minutes while Referee Macdonald cleared the gym of several youngsters who continually harassed the players with their remarks. With Sluggert and Chuck Chapman tossing in the odd basket, the Ribbons came through without much trouble.

BLUES COME THROUGH
Getting away to a fine start, Harmony looked as if they were going to make the girls' fixture one-sided. They passed and shot with great accuracy to take a 12-8 lead at the halfway mark. Buddy Elston with eight points, all but their team had scored, kept the Bays in the running during this canto. The second half was a different story. Coach Yeamans put his team to work and they ran through Harmony's back division and again to wipe out the lead and go out in front. Isabel Crawford, Lillian Laird and Buddy Elston were the trio that spelled disaster in their opponents' camp with basket after basket. Evelyn Johnston and Charlotte Yeamans turned in fine games on the Bays' back division, breaking up numerous offensively throughout. Buddy Elston with sixteen points headed the scorers for the evening.

STUDENTS WIN
With Phillips and Beech throwing them in at a fast clip, Normal School jumped into a fine lead over J.B.A.A. in the second tussle. Both players caged seven points each to give the students a 15-8 lead at halftime. The whole Normal team set a terrific pace and caught their opponents unawares. The oarsmen fought hard in the second half, and Wally Stipe and Clark rang the hoop to give Normal the lead. The crowd was in a frenzy during the final minutes with only a few points separating the clubs. Normal lost Thompson and Williamson on personals, while the Bays were forced to part with Smith.

CARDINALS WIN HOOP FIXTURE

Bill Wallis Stars as High School Squad Trims Saanich Aggregation

In a game featured by the dazzling passing attack of Bill Wallis, star forward, Cardinals of Victoria's High School, gave a 38-0 drubbing to Mount View High School in a Lower Island Inter-High School Basketball League fixture played yesterday afternoon on the Fernwood Institution's floor. A large crowd of enthusiastic students thronged the gallery.

Soon after the opening whistle Andrews received a pass under the hoop from Wallis to score. The pair teamed again, with Wallis doing the scoring. Brown and Greenwood, from Mount View, cancelled each other out, and the Cardinals continued to score freely and took advantage of the Mount View lack of accuracy and their apparent bewilderment at the size of the gym. The Cardinals continued to score on the long end of a 14 to 4 score.

Taylor, on a fast play from centre, took a pass from Bill Wallis to score for the Cardinals. Wallis, Taylor, Macmurchie and Andrews, went down the floor at will to score some pretty field goals. Mount View picked up during the last three minutes of the contest and scored seven points. Brown, Greenwood and Hetherington being responsible. However the lead was too big for the suburbanites to overcome.

Bud Hocking handled the whistle. Teams and individual scores follow:

Cardinals—Andrews (10), Macmurchie (8), Taylor (6), Shepherd (2), Haddon, Cox, Stark (2), and Wallis (10).

Mount View—Hetherington (1), Munkley, Greenwood (4), Sparks, Brown (4), Nesbitt and Waddell.

MOUNT NEWTON WIN
Out at the West Road gym, Charles Oard's side of Mount Newton High School cagers scored a 53 to 15 win over Mount Douglas High School in an interschool fixture. Despite the one-sidedness the Mount Douglas lads played a stellar game, but the zoning system of the Newtons was on top at half-time, 15-8.

Charlie Oard refereed. Teams and individual scores follow:
Mount Newton—Butler (18), Greenhouse, Thompson (8), Young (8), Oakes, Sluggert (8), May (10), Mount Douglas—Ottler (4), Moyer, Watkins (1), Bell (10), Jack

EX-SENIORS' GOLF CHAMP PASSES AWAY

Judge Rigg, of Yakima, Dies After Lengthy Illness—Was Popular Here

Widespread sorrow swept through Pacific Northwest Seniors' Golf Association circles yesterday, when news reached Captain J. V. Perks, secretary of the Victoria Golf Club, that Judge H. R. Rigg, of Yakima, 1931 grand champion, had passed away at his home, after a long illness, on Friday. The stocky jurist, who was one of the most popular members of the association, took ill in the early part of September not long after he had returned from the Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

Judge Rigg was a fine golfer and was always in the running for the grand title when the annual classic rolled around. He often shot the sports Oak Bay course in the seventies, and was a tough opponent for any of them on a links he loved to play on. It was on the Oak Bay course that Judge Rigg won the crown in 1931 when he defeated Winlock Miller, Seattle, in the eighteen-hole final. He was expected back to defend his title this year at Colwood, but passed up the meet to watch the world's greatest collection of athletes arrive for honors at Los Angeles.

In 1930, Judge Rigg made a great bid for the honors at Colwood, but was eliminated, J. A. Byerly, of Portland, winning the honors. The year before at Oak Bay, the American judge reached the final, only to lose to J. E. Wilson, Victoria, after a stern battle. For years he was a familiar figure on local courses, and his cheery disposition will be missed by his many friends, not only locally, but throughout the Northwest.

Duncan Whips Maccabees by 6 to 0 Score

DUNCAN, Nov. 22—Duncan Native Sons strengthened their hold on first place in the Island Senior Football League, when they administered a 6-0 defeat to the Victoria Maccabees here Sunday.

The home team pressed strongly in the first half, but, owing to the excellent work of the visiting goalkeepers, only succeeded in registering one tally, a magnificent drive off the boot of Sylvester.

After the interval it was just a question of how many. Dick Thorne got four, and Bob Walton one in this half.

Robb, of Victoria, refereed.

Metric System for Track Events to Be Used by U.S.A.U.

American Athletic Body Adopts European Method of Measurements—Canada One of Few Countries Not in Line—Change Effective Jan. 1

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP).—The United States Amateur Athletic Union adopted the metric system of measurement for all track and field events, in the closing session of the forty-fourth annual convention today.

The change to the metric system, the universal standard in European countries, came as a distinct surprise, for the question, a matter of argument for a number of years, was not on the convention programme.

But the motion to supersede yards and miles with metres and kilometres was passed by a three-fourths vote of the delegates without a single dissenting voice.

CANADA HAS YARD MEASURE
The decision left Canada as one of the few major countries still using the yard and miles measure in the realm of sports.

Johnny Magee, Bowdoin track coach, who, with A. C. Gilbert, chairman of the advisory board of athletics at Yale, led the discussion here in favor of the change, advocated it in "fairness to American athletes."

"Sooner or later," he said, "we are coming to a universal system of measurement. It is obvious that the international metric system will not be changed, so it is up to us to make our system conform."

The change will be effective in the United States, January 1.

CALGARY, Nov. 22 (AP).—Art Jerwa today became the third of the famed Cammore (Alta) hockey family to join pro ranks, and the tenth player to be signed by Lloyd Turner for his Calgary Tigers in the Western Canada Professional Hockey League.

Jerwa, twenty-six-year-old amateur, who will be seen at centre ice for the Tigers, is a brother of Joe Jerwa of the Boston Bruins, and Frank Jerwa of the Boston Cubs.

Another brother of his, Steve, is still playing amateur hockey with Cammore. Art has been playing hockey more than a dozen years, and last season played in the Seattle City League.

Strict Attention to Be Paid by Referees Against Illegal Tactics in English Code in Future—J.B.A.A. to Meet Fifth Regiment and Scottish to Play Wanderers Saturday

A stern warning from Colonel Cooper, chairman of the Victoria Board of Referees, regarding tackling round the neck and other illegal play, was voiced at the weekly meeting of the Victoria Rugby executive, last evening.

Colonel Cooper, in a letter to the union, said that all referees had agreed to enforce this rule more strictly regarding illegal tactics, and would not hesitate, if necessary, to banish the offending player from the field.

Grounds and referees for Saturday's fixtures were announced as follows:

SENIOR "A"
J.B.A.A. vs. Fifth Brigade, Royal Athletic Club; H. A. Tomalin, Scottish vs. Wanderers, Willow Park; W. Ellis.

SENIOR "B"
Garrison vs. Navy, Navy ground; P. B. Derbyshire vs. Navy, Victoria College vs. Scottish, High School; Gray.

INTERMEDIATE
University School vs. Scottish, Mount Tolmie; C. Jones.

Victoria College vs. Wanderers, Oak Bay Park; E. A. Walls. Colonel Cooper's letter to the union was greeted with general approval. President Russell Ker stated that he agreed with the decision of the referees, and hoped that stricter attention would also be paid to checking the practice of players pulling on top of a man who had fallen on the ball. Colonel Cooper explained that there was no definite rule governing tackling round the neck, but that Law 34 covers foul play and misconduct, and the referees would consider such tactics as coming under this ruling.

STRICT ENFORCEMENT
It is hoped that strict enforcement of the above will lower the number of injuries.

The question of the amusement tax on Rugby games was brought up by the president, who stated that he considered that a decided move should be made to have this abolished as regards amateur sport. He pointed out that amateur sport, at the present time, was having a hard struggle to carry on, and this 10 per cent tax would work a severe hardship on the Rugby Union. It was decided that the president should write to the British Columbia Rugby Union and request them to take steps to organize a protest from all branches of amateur sport with a view to having the tax lifted.

December 10 was set aside by the union as the date on which the entire gate receipts at the Royal Athletic Park will be given to St. Joseph's Hospital in return for their care of injured players.

A letter from the Cowichan Sports Club, requesting an intermediate game on Sunday, was read. It was decided to see whether the Fifth Brigade, who have a bye on Saturday, would be able to send a team up-Island for the fixture.

The executive will meet again on Thursday, at 8 o'clock, when important business regarding the selection committee for the McKelvie Cup games, will be dealt with.

Other odds for the event, which is the last of the major races in the present season, are as follows: Overall and Glegreen, 100 to 8; Cobquid, Codell and Sans Espoir, 100 to 7; Pahokee, North Drift, Hook and Ishmus and Diction, 100 to 6; Scarity and Anna, 20 to 1; Hypostyle, Lingerie, Silver Caster, Epicure, Redewood and Appleby, 25 to 1; Diarmuid, Prince Oxendon and Rockcliffe, 32 to 1; Bob, 40 to 1; Guiscard, 50 to 1, and Pard, 100 to 1.

TWO MIDWEEK GAMES BILLED

Saanich and Hudson's Bay in Feature Tussle—Navy Meet Empress Hotel

The footsteps of Wednesday League fans will lead towards Heywood Avenue today, where Hudson's Bay and Saanich United will battle for second place honors in the Heywood Cup series. In the other game, the league-leading Navy meet the Empress Hotel at Lower Beacon Hill. The sailors are conceded a good chance to take the game, while the Empress Hotel, in a six-minute-round bout, both men showed here last week. Gardner takes the main event from "Bill" Brentana and Welles losing to "Spikie" Ashby. Welles got up from an attack of "flu" to substitute for Norak last week and put up a good show until he was knocked groggy by rabbit punches. Both men are fast and should put on a good show. The remainder of the card will be announced today.

MARY CAMPBELL AND B. BULLOCK-WEBSTER CAPTURE PAR ROUNDS

Mary Campbell won the Class "A" monthly par competition played at the Victoria Golf Club yesterday finishing 2 up. Barbara Bullock-Webster carried off the honors in Class "B" by ending her round with the tidy margin of 4 up.

JOHNNY ROWLAND IS RECOVERING FROM INJURIES RAPIDLY

JOHNNY Rowland, stellar forward of the Canadian Scottish senior Rugby team, is expected to be around again in a few weeks, according to information received yesterday. X-ray photographs showed that Rowland had not suffered any broken bones from his collision with another player at the J.B.A.A.-Scottish game Saturday at Willows Park, and attending physicians are looking forward to a complete recovery within a few weeks.

Russell Ker, president of the Victoria Union, visited the latter was anxious about the Boxing Day "rep" game against a Mainland team here and wanted to know whether he would be given a chance to get into action again. President Ker told him not to worry about being given the opportunity to play if he was fit, but promised him a place on Victoria's all-star team in February, when the locals will meet Vancouver.

SHORE "BAD MAN"
Eddie Shore rounded into his old position as leading "bad man" in four minutes in penalties in four games. Other highly penalized men included Bill Cook, 14 minutes; Bun

RAIN HALTS CRICKET AT MELBOURNE

M.C.C. Match Against Antipodeans Declared Drawn—Bowlers in Form

MELBOURNE, Nov. 22 (CP).—Heavy rain today prevented the match between the touring M.C.C. cricket eleven and the side representing Australia to an abrupt conclusion when the Antipodeans were in a fair way to be dismissed as cheaply as their opponents yesterday. The match was declared drawn.

Needing 125 runs for victory, the All-Australians could do nothing about the bowling of Harold Larwood, the English fast bowler, and two wickets had been lost when rain flooded the pitch and caused abandonment of the game. M.C.C. scored 282 and 60, while in the first time at bat the home players collected 218.

BRADMAN HOWLED
Play was resumed today before 10,000 persons and yesterday's sensational upset was duplicated. Woodward was taken by Duckworth in Larwood's second over to play on the score board, and then the famous Don Bradman had his off-stump uprooted when he made a wild swing at the first ball he saw. Larwood's fourth over, O'Brien and Rigg were at the wickets whenumps were pulled. Larwood took two wickets for five runs.

DETROIT HANDS FLYING FRENCHMEN SETBACK

Red Wings Score 4 to 2 Victory Over Canadiens

Detroit Club Matches Speed of Famed Habitués in Victory—Boston Bruins Move Into Tie for First Place by Whipping Hawks, 5-1—Americans Stop Maroons, 5-2

DETROIT, Nov. 22 (AP).—Detroit Red Wings matched speed and team play with Canadiens of Montreal tonight, and came out the victors, 4-2, in a fast, spectacular National League hockey match before 10,000 spectators.

The Wings, more or less of an unknown quantity in the National League, skated on equal terms with the Montreal speed stars, and showed a better defence to hold off Canadiens' scoring threats. Detroit's front line of Eddie Goodfellow, Herbie Lewis and Eddie Wiseman, matched the speed of Maroons, Joliet and Gagnon in almost every play.

Walter Buswell, wing defence man, had his first big night in the National League. He scored two of the Wings goals, one of them a lone-handed, spectacular play in which he bested a charging Montreal line all the way to Hainsworth, Canadiens' goalie, and beat him cleverly. Wiseman, little Red Wing forward from Regina, got his first National League goal on an assist from Goodfellow, and Lewis counted late in the game when he broke away from a five-man Canadian drive into Detroit ice.

Summary: First period—1, Canadiens, Maroons (S. Mantha), 16:15.

Second period—2, Detroit, Buswell (Evans, Goodfellow), 2:05; 3, Detroit, Wiseman (Goodfellow), 8:20; 4, Canadiens, Gagnon (Mantha, Joliet), 11:05; 5, Detroit, Buswell, 14:20.

Third period—6, Detroit, Lewis (Evans), 18:30.

BRUINS WHIP HAWKS. Boston Bruins blasted the first place team in the American section of the National Hockey League by sending their co-leaders, Chicago Black Hawks, down to a 5-1 defeat here tonight. The Hawks were speedy and aggressive throughout, but few breaks came their way.

The game started out like a rout for the Hawks. Paul Thompson shooting them into a lead in the third minute. Paul let a fly after a three-man passing attack to pop the puck behind his brother, "Tiny," in the home team's net.

That, however, ended the Chicago scoring, as the Bruin defence tightened and their front ranks took on new speed. The hub team's flashy winger, Dill Clapper, drove the puck behind Charlie Gardiner three times, once in each period. A couple of the goals were hardly the sort the starry netman would pass when on top of his game.

Neils Stewart, who switched allegiance this season from Montreal Maroons to Boston, and Harry Oliver, bagged the other goals for the winners.

Summary: First period—1, Chicago, P. Thompson (Graham and Gottselig), 2:24; 2, Boston, Stewart (Clapper), 2:39; 3, Boston, Clapper (Shore), 17:04. Second period—4, Boston, Clapper (Stewart), 19:14. Third period—5, Boston, Oliver, 7:08; 6, Boston, Clapper (Barry), 11:39.

INJURY AIDS AMERKS. MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (CP).—Aided immeasurably by an injury to the opposing goalie in the first few minutes of the game, New York Americans evened the season's count with Montreal Maroons tonight by winning, 5-2, in a loosely-played National Hockey League match.

"Flat" Walsh, Montreal goalie, was hurt in the opening minutes when he plucked out of his net to check a rush by Nick Wanie, New York wingman, and was struck over the eye by Wanie's skate. Walsh received a deep gash and a bruised eyeball.

His place was taken by Hugh Flaxton, former Canadian Olympic centre player. To add to Montreal's troubles, "Baldy" Northcott, the league's leading scorer, was put out of commission for a period when he crashed into a goal post in the middle of the game. Two major penalties were assessed against Montreal. Jimmie Ward receiving one for fighting with Norm Himes, who drew a minor and Lionel Conacher the other for tripping to prevent a goal.

Himes started the Amerks on their way to victory with a first period goal on Charlie McVeigh's assist.

After that Bill Brydge, hard shooting defenceman from Port Arthur, held away almost alone. Brydge scored in the second and again in the third period and assisted Johnny Sheppard to a counter in

Davies-Morgan Bout Scheduled For December 1

ALBIE Davies, Victoria junior welterweight, will meet Tod Morgan, former world's champion, in their ten-round mix at the Pacific Stadium on December 1. In the six-round semi-wind-up Jumbo Davies, hard-hitting local boy, will battle Frankie Holland, of Spokane. A great deal of interest is being aroused following the announcements of these bouts in Sunday's Colonist and a large crowd is expected. The card will be presented under the auspices of the Victoria Boxing Club.

the second season and Wansle to one in the third.

Summary: First period—1, Americans, Himes (McVeigh), 12:35. Second period—2, Americans, Brydge (Kesting and Wansle), 5:15; 3, Americans, Sheppard (Brydge and Phillips), 11:44; 4, Maroons, Ward (Trotter and Wentworth), 14:32. Third period—5, Maroons, Brydge (Haynes), 5:10; 6, Americans, Brydge, 19:40; 7, Americans, Wansle (Brydge), 19:52.

ANDERSON HELD TO DRAW BY COGGINS

PORTLAND, Nov. 23 (AP).—George "Wildcat" Pete, of Eugene, Ore., defeated Bobby Bylund, of Minneapolis, two falls out of three in the featured match of a wrestling card here last night. Pete weighed 155, and Bylund, 160.

Des Anderson, 152, Seattle, and Billy Coggins, 158, Tacoma, wrestled five rounds to a draw in the semi-wind-up. Squeak Clark Langer, 145, Portland, won a fall over Jack Strader, 149, Salem, in the thirty-minute preliminary event.

FRANK FINNEGAN ON INJURED LIST

OTTAWA, Nov. 22.—Frank Finnegan, right wing on Ottawa's first line in the National Hockey League, fractured a rib in the first period of the game against Detroit, here, Saturday night.

After an X-ray examination, it was reported he would be out of action for at least two weeks.

NANAIMO RUGGERS DEFEAT DUNCAN

DUNCAN, Nov. 22.—Nanaimo United played an exhibition Rugby match against Cowichan Sports Club at the cricket ground Sunday. The game resulted in a 21-15 win for Nanaimo. R. Hodson refereed.

EARL MCCREARY WINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Powerful Earl McCready, of Amulet, Sask., defeated Sandor Szabo, of Hungary, in a bitterly fought wrestling match in Madison Square Garden last night. The ex-cowherd who first gained sports prominence as a member of Canada's Olympic team of 1928, used a seventeen-point win to the weights to advantage and finally pinned his 200-pound opponent in 31 minutes 42 seconds.

In the headliner Ed Stranger, Lewis, 238, Los Angeles, threw George Calza, 230, Italy, in 18:45.

MID-ISLAND SOCCER

DUNCAN, Nov. 22.—In a Mid-island football league match played here Sunday, the Duncan Olympic Club scored an easy victory over the Westholm team by a score of 5-1. D. Robertson (3), E. Smylie and D. Pitt did the scoring for the winners. C. Thorne refereed.

Fort William Amateur Hockey Player Passes

PORT WILLIAM, Nov. 22.—Tommy McCranor, clever Fort William amateur hockey player of last Winter, died here today, a victim of Bright's disease.

CHOCOLATE TAKES NON-TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP).—Kid Chocolate, Havana negro holder of the junior lightweight championship, and recognized in this State as featherweight titleholder, won a ten-round decision from Eddie Reilly, of New York, in an over-weight bout at the New York Coliseum last night. Chocolate weighed 127 1/2 pounds, Reilly 134. Yumbo Ambrede, 123 3/4, New York, won in eight rounds from Vidal Gregorio, 122 3/4, Spain.

DILLABOUGH AGAIN HEAD OF UPLANDS

Re-elected President of Club—Major Angus Renamed Vice-Prexy

There was an attendance of over 100 members at the annual general meeting of Uplands Golf Club, held in the Sprent-Shaw schoolroom, with F. C. Dillabough in the chair.

The various committees presented their reports for the year, with the total membership standing at 561. The finances were shown to be in a healthy state, the net revenue for the year being over $1,000.

Three of the by-laws of the club were altered, one reducing the annual dues of women to $25 from $40. A class for nonresident members was added to the present list, the annual subscription being placed at $25. Residents outside a forty-mile radius of the General Postoffice, Victoria, are eligible for membership in this class.

At a subsequent meeting of the committee, the following were elected to fill the various offices for the year: President, F. C. Dillabough (re-elected); vice-president, Major W. C. Angus (re-elected); captain, W. Wilkie; vice-captain, J. Shaw; treasurer, M. Hawking (6), K. Macklin (2), H. Macklin (2), E. Macklin (1), O. Orr (4), W. Weyland, T. Luskovich, E. Cronk. Mosquito Club—L. Ormond (3), W. Jones (2), H. Haggan (6), L. Good, C. Kilmer (1), M. Parrot. Shawanigan—C. Lewington (4), W. Elford (18), E. Lewis (1), E. Gibson (3), O. Doney (1), P. Sutton (2), A. Plows (1).

CHEMAINUS SPORT

Chemainus Badminton Club went down by a 14-2 defeat at the hands of Vimy.

In a football match Sunday at Chemainus, Chemainus Sheikhs won from Saanich United, 4-3. In the first half Douglas Inkster had the misfortune to hurt his ankle, being replaced by Jack Cherrington. Score at the end of the first half was 1-0 in favor of Saanich United. Goals were scored by the visitors by Ford Patterson and Stonier, while for the home team, Babe Work scored once and Ted Clayton, three.

THISTLES TO PRACTISE

First and Second Division teams of the Saanich Thistles will hold a workout at the Veterans of France tonight at 7:30 o'clock. All players are asked to attend.

JEBY WHIPS DEVLIN IN TITLE BOUT

New York Middleweight Wins Crown Recognized by State Commission

ST. NICHOLAS RINK, NEW YORK, Nov. 22 (AP).—Ben "Heeby" Jeby, rawhide middleweight from the East Side of New York, won himself a leaf on the middleweight championship last night by soundly thrashing Chick Devlin, Los Angeles Irishman, in a fifteen-round battle that had the title approval of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Stolid, but as durable as a steel-toothed buzz saw and just as dangerous, the Jewish boy from the district that developed the original Benny Leonard and a dozen croaky-chinned "second Leonard," hammered Devlin so lustily that the unanimous decision in his favor was a formality.

Laundry Girls Beat Shawnigan Lake Hoopsters

SHAWNIGAN LAKE, Nov. 21.—The S.L.A.A. Hall was the scene of two fast exhibition basketball games Saturday. The Standard Steam Laundry girls' quintette from Victoria took the floor in the first game against the local five.

Victoria took an early lead and were well on the long end of the score at the half-time period. In the second half the locals showed promise of overtaking their opponents, but the visitors managed to hold a lead to win 21-11.

The men's game was a one-sided affair, with the visiting Nanaimo Mosquito Club five dropping their game to the local boys by a score of 51-10. The Nanaimo look an early lead, which they gradually increased. The Mosquitoes only once threatened by dropping in a few quick counters, but the locals soon retaliated and continued their scoring bee until the final whistle.

Evans with eighteen points and E. Lewington with fourteen led the scorers, while the rest of the local team turned in good games. A dance and social followed the games until midnight.

The teams and individual scores follow: "Standard Steam" Laundry—H. Scott (10), W. Varney, D. Rendie (8), N. Rendie, H. Sargison (2), N. Purss (1), N. Scott. Shawanigan—C. Lewington (18), E. Gibson (18), E. Lewis (1), E. Gibson (3), O. Doney (1), P. Sutton (2), A. Plows (1).

SOCIAL PERIOD IS DELIGHTFUL

First United Church Young People Enjoyed Meeting—Rev. Bruce Gray Speaks

A well-arranged recreational period was provided for members of the First United Church Young People's Society at their regular meeting Monday night. Douglas Smith was in charge of the programme and presented several new and original games which were enjoyed.

Rev. Bruce G. Gray gave a most informative address on the "Founding of the New Oxford Group Movement by F. D. Buchman, the American Lutheran Minister," explaining how it had spread to the Old Country and referring to the visit to Canada of members of the movement.

An excellent musical programme was contributed by E. Velich, violinist, and R. Hardy, who gave several humorous character sketches. Jack Smith rendered the following selections on the organ, "Andante Religioso" (Lied melody), "Land of the Air" (Irish melody), and Caprice on "Notes of Cuckoo." The devotional period was conducted by Miss Jean Menzies, whose topic was "Christian Service."

Announcement was made that members of the society would provide a concert on Thursday night for unemployed at the Citizens' Recreation Room. Other representatives will have charge of the Sunday evening services at the Lake Hill Mission. Robert Wallace announced that the society's annual concert would be held at the weekly meeting next Monday.

JOINT MEETING

Members of the Kiwanis Club will meet the clubs at a bridge and billiard tournament on Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock. It was announced by Rowan McKenzie at the former club's luncheon yesterday. The members will meet at the Elks' clubrooms. President W. Ellis Brown announced that the Kiwanians had been invited to attend the Rotary luncheon on Thursday, when the Empire debaters would be the guest speakers. He urged as many as possible to attend.

STEAMBOAT VETERAN DIES

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 22 (AP).—Captain Harry C. Baughman, sixty-five, veteran steamboat man of the Columbia, Snake and Yukon rivers, died at his home here today. The funeral will be held tomorrow here. He was born in Idaho, where he lived for many years.

Flashy Field Will Go After Honors in Annual Tournament

Fine Talent Expected to Face Starter in City Badminton Meet at Willows—Play to Open December 5—Plans Completed

Complete arrangements for the holding of the annual city badminton championship tournament on the courts of the Willows Club were made by the executive yesterday, and announced by Secretary Dudley Wickett. The annual classic will commence Monday, December 5, at 7:30 o'clock, and will continue each evening during the week, with the finals booked Friday. The finest talent in the city will be in the thick of the field, and some great exhibitions should take place before the titleholders are declared.

All the defending champions have signified their intentions of starting after the honors. Drennan Hinks and Margery Benson, singles champions, will be on deck, while most of the doubles teams of last year are expected to keep together. The women's doubles were captured by Mrs. McDonald and Miss Morley, while Mona Miller and Drennan Hinks copped the mixed crown. Hinks and Mitchell walked off with the men's doubles honors, and will not be together for this meet, as the latter has left the city. Mitchell is a student at Brentwood College a year ago, and showed remarkable form throughout the tourney, reaching the final against Hinks.

HANDICAP EVENTS. Besides these open events, four handicap titles will be played for. There will be the men's and women's doubles, mixed doubles and the veterans' doubles. The handicaps will not be played for if less than eight couples enter for each event. Consolation events will also be on the card.

Major H. B. Hunter has been made chairman of the tournament committee, which includes Jean Campbell, P. A. Jackson and Dudley Wickett. Entries must be sent to Secretary Wickett, 1205 Government Street, not later than 6 o'clock Friday, December 2. Three challenge trophies will be at stake, including the men's singles cup, donated by the Willows Club, and the Maurice Carmichael Cup for the women's doubles. Major Cuthbert Holmes donated the trophy for the veterans' doubles now held by Major Hunter and Major Chambers.

STARS ENTERED. Although the strength of the field is not yet known, the following stars will go after the men's singles title: Noel Radford, who holds a share in the Canadian men's and mixed doubles crowns; Drennan Hinks, Harry Webb, Peter Phillips, Ross Hocking, while Margery Benson, Dorothy Morley, Doreen Swayne and Florence Oates will play in the women's singles.

DICKENS CLUB TO GIVE PARTY

Plan to Celebrate Christmas—Introduction to Reading of "Martin Chuzzlewit" Given

The Dickens Club, at its meeting this week, discussed plans for a Christmas party. "In comes the Christmas," the club has chosen for Monday, December 19. Details will be outlined later in the press. "Martin Chuzzlewit," the book by Dickens, which the club has chosen for its reading this season, was the subject of an interesting paper given by the secretary, A. W. Arnup, whose material was in the nature of an introduction to the winter study.

QUOTES SUMMARY. Foster's able summary was quoted: "The persons delineated in former books have been more agreeable, but now we are introduced with men, women, brought out with a grasp so large, easy and firm. As well in this as in the passionate vividness of its descriptions, the imaginative power makes itself felt. The winter Autumn night, with the mad desolation of the hunted leaves and the roaring mirth of the blinding village fairs, the market day at Salisbury, the winter walk, the coach journey to London by night, the ship voyage over the Atlantic, the stormy midnight travel before the murder, the stealthy enterprise and cowardly return of the murderer; these are instances of first-rate description, original in design, imaginative in all detail, and very complete in execution."

STUDY BOOK AS A WHOLE. "I think," said Mr. Arnup, "we should study the book as a whole in the light of Dickens' intentions when he wrote it, for he had his main object in this story was to exhibit, in a variety of aspects, the commonest of all vices; to show how selfishness propagates itself, and to what a grim end it may grow from small beginnings."

Roll call was taken with quotations, and C. C. Pemberton spoke entertainingly on the subject of illustrations, with a few examples for inspection. Readings were given by President W. L. Llewellyn, Miss Van Becker and Miss Fox.

LIBRARY UNABLE TO LEND BOOKS

Admit Injustice to Nonresident, but Granting Privilege Found Illegal

Cancellation of library agreements by Saanich and Esquimalt municipalities has created an admittedly unfair situation for some of the residents, who own property in the city, but a situation for which the library board has not yet found a solution.

This was revealed at Monday night's meeting of the City Council when a protest was received from Ellis Hallor, who said that because he was a resident in Saanich he was not allowed to draw books from the library, although he paid $50 a year licence fee of the city.

On the surface the "otest seemed a just one and was admitted to be so by Alderman W. T. Strath, member of the library board.

NO SOLUTION FOUND. The alderman explained, however, this complaint already had been given careful consideration by the board, and although the library officials would like to do something to obviate the unfairness, no solution had yet been found.

If Mr. Hallor were granted the library privileges, then the board would be placed in the position whereby the Saanich and Esquimalt municipalities could take advantage of such a condition later when they might decide to resume library service for their residents.

The matter was referred back to the library board for report, and a copy of the complaint will be forwarded to the Saanich council.

OLYMPIC FUND TO BE RAISED

Early Start to Raise Money for 1936 Games Will Be Made

EDMONTON, Nov. 22 (CP).—Planning of Canada's 1936 Olympic team will not be left for eleven months, but will start at once, it was announced by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada today to adopt one of two plans before it next month at Ottawa.

A proposal of John Leslie, Edmonton, secretary of the A.A.U. of C., calls for an "Olympic tax" on all tickets of admission to events sanctioned by the A.A.U. This suggestion makes no reference to the size of the tax to be levied or the amount that would be forthcoming through it.

It is to be effective, however, only if the Canadian Olympic committee decides to call upon the allied members of the union to levy such a tax. Delegates to the Ottawa convention, from December 8 to 10, also will consider a suggestion by the British Columbia branch that the Olympic committee strike a budget for the next Olympic Games immediately, and that the rest of the Provincial Government and the Dominion Government for a yearly donation to cover expenses in the said budget.

Under the British Columbia financial plan each branch of sport represented at the 1936 games would be allotted a proportion from the total gained through the budget to cover their representatives' expenses.

NANAIMO BOWLING

NANAIMO, Nov. 22.—On the local bowling alleys last evening in the Commercial League, Gyros took two games from Imperials, with C. Baker, for the Gyros, high score with 268, and Fred Botley, for Imperials, high average with 238.

In the Davenport-Vancouver Milling game, Davenport took two games, with C. Peart, for the Milling, high score with 305 and high average with 268.

In a colliery district in Lancashire lived a kind-hearted but absent-minded doctor. He was called in one day to a patient suffering from a severe cold. "Yes," he said, after hearing the symptoms, "you must put your feet in very hot water, as hot as you can bear it." And then he noticed that the patient had both legs amputated below the knee!

STATION L-O-V-E

BY CRAIG CARROLL

CHAPTER XXIV

Judy continued to tell Elsie of her suspicions of Lona. "I've told you what I've heard," Judy said. "Lona has ruined things for half a dozen girls before me. She's mean, Elsie. Mean as she can be. And dangerous. That's what that blonde girl told me. Said Lona had ways of finding out things and using them against people. Get jobs that way, sometimes. And she's been trying to see Jenks to tell him something. And they're sure to find out, over at the studio, about this new contract."

"Don't tell 'em," Elsie said immediately. "Of course I won't. But Flavin, the advertising man, will. And you don't know how fast everybody gets to know everything around a station."

"They can't do anything about it, can they?"

"Not to me."

"But Dick—"

"He's the one who's in danger. Elsie. And he's got all those people he's got to take care of. Just got to. If he loses his job—"

Elsie shrugged. "Never cross a bridge till you think you're going to get your feet wet," she observed. "And here's a bridge."

Silent, they crossed the Wabash bridge, walked north, past the grim, angular brick buildings. Silent, they came at last to the house, and on the porch sat Dick and Bessie. Dick, the gold-toothed radio operator.

"Dick jumped up, came running down the steps. Judy, I thought you'd never get home. What happened today? Was the client all right? Did he have some kick to make?"

Eyes averted, Judy handed him the contract. There was a moment of silence. Then she heard Dick Mason whoop with joy, heard him chanting, "Judy's success! She's got a contract! A hundred dollars a week! Gee!"

Suddenly he seized her hands. "Judy, I told you they liked you. I told you—"

"Yes," Judy said quietly, "you were right, Dick. And it's all due to you, Dick. You did everything for me."

He laughed. "Didn't do a thing. You did it yourself. Elsie, meet Billy. Best radio operator in town. Billy, meet Elsie. Nicest girl here. Except Judy. Billy, Elsie, go away. I've got to talk to Judy. Go eat dinner, or anything. Go on!"

Billy grinned, with all his gold teeth. And Elsie grinned. Judy felt a pang of pity for Elsie, so unbecomingly aware of her lack of charm. Then she saw Billy take Elsie's arm, leading her toward the porch. Elsie looked happy. Of course, Billy wasn't handsome, he wasn't tall, and his clothes hung wildly about him. But he was Elsie's cavalier.

So Judy turned to face Dick. And to feel, as he laughed, as he went on excitedly, proud of her success, that she must tell him the truth. And very soon, before it was too late.

But the days passed. Elsie went to a movie with Billy one night and appeared at midnight, flushed, happy, proud. Elsie went to lunch with him Saturday and learned all about radio and how to tune out static. Elsie had Billy over for lunch Sunday, and he put a new aerial on the radio in her room and talked about the invention he was going to finish some day, and then suggested it would be nice to go to the zoo.

So Judy was alone late in the afternoon when the telephone rang. It might be Dick. But it was not. It was Elton Day.

"Are you alone?"

"Why—yes."

"I want to see you, Judy. I'll be up in just a few minutes. I've got to see you. Good-bye."

The receiver clicked. Judy, puzzled, suddenly afraid, returned to the living-room. It seemed she had been there for hours, leafing through magazines she did not want to read, listening for the doorbell, when suddenly it rang loudly and, in a moment, the landlady said, "Gentleman to see you, Judy."

It was Elton, and he seemed breathless, for a moment he could not talk. Then he managed, "Judy, things are happening."

"What things? Tell me! Tell me, Elton!"

"Not until I've told you something else, Judy. I'm in love with you. You know it. I'm saying it badly, but I love you. For the first time in my life, I'm being absolutely honest. I'm not worth a thing, and you know it. I've a thousand things against me, and you'll find out the ones I don't know. But I love you."

Judy stepped away from him, staring. Something had changed. Elton Day. There was no sneer at the corners of his mouth, there was no arrogance in his voice. He might have been on his knees, on the worn carpet, in this shabby room. He might have been pleading for life.

Perhaps he was. Perhaps Elton Day, looking at the years ahead of him, afraid of his own loneliness, he had fought so hard to achieve peace, that she felt when Dick Mason said, "I love you, Judy." Not like that. Something that frightened her, that was new.

She moved her hands across her mouth, in a frail gesture that meant "No. Please don't say anything more. No."

He brushed her hands away, held them tightly, looked at her. His eyes begged, "Judy. Tell me! You don't hate me any more. You know you don't. Tell me, Judy!"

"I don't hate you," she said. It was true. Whatever hate there had been was gone. You cannot hate a man who is honest, whose armor is gone, who grovels because he loves you. "I don't hate you," she repeated quietly.

"Then I've a right to say it again. I love you, Judy Allison! And you're going to love me!"

She laughed. It was a very small laugh, it was not what she had meant. It was like striking Elton Day in the face.

"No," she said. "I'm not. I couldn't love you if I wanted to. And I don't want to."

"Dick Mason! You're in love with him! Look at me! Let me see your eyes, Judy!"

She faced him, standing quite still, looking into his eyes. The strange feeling was gone. He was a man named Elton Day, and nothing more than that, to Judy.

His eyes widened. Something shadowed them. Then, amazingly, he began to laugh. He threw back his head and laughed in a terrible, raw-edged chuckle that went on and on. He stepped away, still laughing. Somehow, through his awful laughter she heard him saying, "It's funny! It's the funniest thing that ever happened! It—No! No!" He was not laughing any more. His face was white, his eyes stared. "Judy! You don't know what's happened. It's not funny. It's ghastly."

His hat lay on the table where he had tossed it. Now he picked up the hat, turned it awkwardly in fumbling fingers. It dropped. He stooped, picked it up, dropped it again.

"Judy! I didn't mean to say what I've just said. I came to tell you something. But I can't tell you now. Good-bye, Judy!"

He was gone. The door slammed. Then, in a moment, there was the noise of a car starting, outside.

Now, for the first time, Judy moved. She went to the window. She saw Elton Day's car moving down the street. She realized there were tears in her eyes. Not because he was gone. She did not care. She was sure she did not care at all. But because she was honest, and because she was a girl who had been taught to be sorry for people who do not know their own way out.

DAVID SPENCER LIMITED

Hurry! Hurry! She bit her lips, trembled, moved restlessly, waiting, waiting for an interminable time. Until a distant voice said, "Station WAOA."

"Let me speak to Mr. Mason, please."

"Who is calling?"

"Miss Allison. It's about the Beauty Builders' programme."

"Oh, Miss Allison?" There was a mocking inflection in the voice. "Just a moment."

A long wait again. Then the voice said, "Sorry, Mr. Mason is not here. Mr. Mason left the station today."

"What?"

"What?"

"Mr. Mason is no longer connected with station WAOA."

The phone clicked. (To Be Continued)

PREVENTING FAULTY POSTURE

The way young men entering Harvard University and the girls entering Smith College carried themselves, that is, their posture as they walked, stood, or sat down, was classified as A, B, C and D. Representing excellent, good, poor and bad.

What was found? The result showed that eighty per cent of the young men entering Harvard University and of the girls entering Smith College were found to have faulty posture and had to be graded C and D.

Similar results were found in groups of 2,000 children five to eighteen years of age, in Chelsea, Mass., and in 4,000 children in the State of Maryland.

Reddy and Mrs. Reddy Give Up

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A mother's love knows no retreat. And always it is hard to beat. —Old Mother Nature.

Once Reddy Fox sets out to do a thing he does not like to give up. This is especially true when he is after something to eat. He is smart and knows it. It is the same way with Mrs. Reddy. It is hard for them to believe that anyone can be smarter.

So when they went out to find the babies of Mrs. Lightfoot, the Deer they wouldn't admit even to themselves that it was possible for Mrs. Lightfoot to be smarter than they. From her actions they were certain that those fawns were hidden in a certain thicket. When they approached it she drove them away in great rage. Furthermore, they never succeeded in entering the very far from the thicket, although they tried and tried. Yet though they had searched through and through that thicket they hadn't found those fawns.

"We will have to try another plan," said Mrs. Reddy. "We will keep in hiding and not let her suspect that we are about. She must go to them several times a day to feed them and by watching we can find just what place she goes to most often and there we will find the babies."

So Reddy and Mrs. Reddy kept out of Mrs. Lightfoot's sight and where she did not get their scent

"I don't believe she has any babies," declared Reddy

but where they could keep watch of her. She browsed over a considerable space, sometimes in one thicket and sometimes in another thicket. But when she laid down it was most often in the thicket from which she had so fiercely chased them. And it was most often in a certain part of that thicket. So they were sure that there was where the babies were hidden.

They waited until Mrs. Lightfoot went down to the nearest pool in the Laughing Brook to drink and then once more searched that thicket. They found no baby Deer. They found the bed of Mrs. Lightfoot, but that was all.

"I don't believe she has any babies," declared Mrs. Reddy.

"But if she hasn't why should she care if we enter the thicket? Why should she drive us away in such a rage?" demanded Reddy.

"I don't know," replied Mrs. Reddy. "Perhaps she did have some babies and something has happened to them and she has not recovered from her grief yet."

"Reddy shook his head. "No," said he, "that isn't it. If she hasn't babies then I do not know mother-love when I see it. There is something queer about this. Somehow she has managed to hide those babies, but how is beyond me. I guess, my dear, we may as well give up."

"We will have one more careful look," replied Mrs. Reddy.

They did. It was a very careful look. It included several thickets in that vicinity, but chiefly that one in which Mrs. Lightfoot spent so much time and from which she had so fiercely driven them. The thicket in which the fawns were hidden was the farthest from the one where Mrs. Lightfoot spent most of her time and was looked through very hurriedly. Reddy didn't respect to find the babies there and he wasn't disappointed.

So at last the search was given up. Mrs. Reddy had a narrow escape from the jaws of Mrs. Lightfoot and on this account was the more willing to give up. Baby Deer might make a wonderful dinner, but there were other dinners easier to get and without danger; she would be quite satisfied with these.

So, for that matter, would Reddy Fox. The chief reason for which he hated to give up was that it was an admission that Mrs. Lightfoot had proven herself too smart for two of the smartest folk in all the Green Forest. His pride was touched.

The next story: "The Fright of Peter Rabbit."

A man was taken before the magistrate, charged with being drunk. He pleaded guilty and was fined ten shillings. Thereupon he begged that he fine be remitted, as he had only one shilling left.

"No," replied the learned beak. "If you hadn't got drunk and spent the money, you would have had sufficient to pay the fine!"
